

ESSMANN ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT OF STATE'S FUNDS

FORMER SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC PROPERTY IS HELD AT INDIANAPOLIS.

IN COURT ON MONDAY

Madison, March 28.—Following the notification last night of the arrest of William L. Essmann, former superintendent of public property, at Indianapolis, a warrant charging embezzlement of state funds was issued today for his arrest. Officer Julius J. Krug left for that city this morning to bring him back. Krug was armed with a revolver and a shotgun. The warrant was issued by Judge J. H. Nelson. The warrant charges that Essmann, while acting as superintendent of public property, has embezzled state funds to the amount of $240 and the other $234, misappropriations alleged to have been made in 1911 and 1912 of the investigation of the complete embezzlement of the state funds. The total shortage is expected to reach several thousand dollars. Essmann resigned as superintendent of public property by request January 26.

Taken at Indianapolis. Essmann was arrested at Indianapolis, Indiana, on Friday night by detectives for Madison authorities charged with the embezzlement of Wisconsin state funds. The amount involved is said to be approximately $7,000.

Essmann denied the charges against him and asserted that his arrest was a political move. He charged that Gov. Mc Govern, with whom Essmann was formerly very friendly, virtually being his campaign manager in the state, had threatened to "get him" and that the arrest is a part of such a plot.

Essmann agreed to return to Madison without requisition papers, asserting that he would be easily able to prove his innocence.

He declared he knew his accounts were being examined after he left Wisconsin and that he had been guilty of any theft he could easily be proved. Essmann was well known in Indianapolis and Marion, Indiana where he formerly lived.

Madison, Wis., March 28.—A complete report of the financial transactions of William L. Essmann, former superintendent of public property, was disclosed today by the state auditor, J. H. Nelson, who was charged with the investigation of the alleged irregularities, has been filed with Governor Mc Govern during the week. A careful estimate indicates that the figures will amount as high as $7,000, and that the money was taken from the state treasury about two months ago. It was currently reported then, and has since been substantiated, that he had disposed of about 200 copies of the state of 1911, amounting to $100,000, and deposited the money to his own account.

The investigation has been conducted by John R. Hayes, Madison, and J. H. Nelson, state auditor. The investigation has been conducted by John R. Hayes, Madison, and J. H. Nelson, state auditor. The investigation has been conducted by John R. Hayes, Madison, and J. H. Nelson, state auditor.

Three hundred and eleven copies of the 1911 statutes were sent out under Essmann's personal direction and the checks received were deposited to his account in the First National bank of Madison.

The value of $100 was purchased from a Milwaukee firm and billed and paid for by the state as a bill of exchange. After Essmann's discharge, unbroken packages of the 1911 statutes were recovered from a check in a room adjoining Essmann's private office.

A State Pays for Jewelry. A Milwaukee jewelry firm billed the state in several different invoices for over $700 in diamonds and engraved stationery. It was discovered since that although these invoices were accompanied by affidavits from an official of the company, the invoices were not checked. The invoices in fact were for jewelry which were personally delivered to Essmann.

The investigation as to the sale of the 1911 statutes and the delivery of other furniture to the state, was not completed. The contract called for the delivery of furniture "at the capitol." Essmann never state employees to unload the furniture from the capitol. This was an item of considerable saving to the company, for which no refund check to the state has yet been filed.

Statutes Rinsed Most. Silversmiths and blanching the executive mansion were found in boxes in the rooms of the superintendent of public property after his dismissal. The property of the governor's mansion had no knowledge of the purchase of these articles.

UNABLE TO SETTLE BRITISH ARMY SNAG

Cabinet Ministers Still Hopeful That An Adjustment Will Be Reached.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Eng., March 28.—No solution had been found up to a late hour today of the situation caused by the resignation of Field Marshal Sir John French, and Adjutant General Sir John Bullard from their positions at the head of the British army. The cabinet, however, still was hopeful that its difficulties would be overcome before it again meets the house of commons on Monday.

Should the chief of the general staff and the adjutant persist in their attitude it is generally thought that Col. John Seely, secretary of state for war, will leave the cabinet.

In case the government should be able to placate the field marshal, and the adjutant general, the transfer of Col. Seely to some other field of activity probably will satisfy the liberal and laboring members of the cabinet.

In the meantime the opposition in the army to employment in the corporation of Ulster is vouchered for by no less an authority than Sir Edward Richard Russell, a staunch supporter of the government.

The members of the cabinet separated today for the weekend and most of them have gone on visits to various parts of the country.

OWEN MAKES RULING REGARDS ELECTIONS

Explains Nominations by Non-Partisan
Primary and by Nomination Papers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., March 28.—Attorney General Walter C. Owen today issued a statement to District Attorney W. B. Collins of Sheboygan interpreting the provisions of the constitution regarding the election of judges and justices of the peace.

Collins asked whether there was any conflict in the provisions of the statute that in one place provided for nominations by a non-partisan primary and in another by nomination papers.

"In cities in which the primary system of nomination has been adopted, the nominations of candidates for city offices are nevertheless made by the primary, and not by nomination papers," declared the attorney general, "and are to be made therefore under the provisions of Sec. 30 of the statutes."

He declared that the provisions of the constitution regarding the election of judges and justices of the peace are to be made therefore under the provisions of Sec. 30 of the statutes.

The girls' dormitory, one of the last buildings added to the normal, is unharmed, as it is located about two blocks away from the site of the main building.

The enrollment this year is reported by President E. V. McCaskill as close to 800. The faculty includes thirty-five men and women.

St. Louis, March 28.—Twenty men were routed from their beds and narrow escapes when fire destroyed the Y. M. C. A. building at Alton, Ill., where the state banking department was housed.

The fire was reported by the night watchman and upon the arrival of the fire department it was recognized that the force was unable to cope with the situation. Both Duluth departments were summoned, but their aid was of no avail.

Superior normal was established Sept. 8, 1896, and its attendance comprising young men and women studying for the teaching profession, from one of the widest areas of any in the state benefiting from a normal school grew so rapidly that the state legislature was obliged to build an addition about five years ago.

The girls' dormitory, one of the last buildings added to the normal, is unharmed, as it is located about two blocks away from the site of the main building.

Big Campaign Fights Hinge on Large Cities.—Women's Vote a Factor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 28.—Reports from the many Illinois townships in which the local option question will be voted on at the spring election, indicated today that the most strenuous contests were being waged in the cities.

Nearly 300 townships will vote wet or dry April 7, and a review from different counties disclosed that the anti-saloon forces were having little organized opposition in rural and village communities, but that spirited contests were being waged on the dry program in the larger communities.

Repeated assertions of anti-saloon leaders that the votes of women would be strongly against the liquor business were disputed in at least one city. Champions of the license forces in Aurora declared today that they expected to defeat the dry petition through the aid of women voters.

The result is about the same—humane lives are saved, suffering and pain are prevented, and workers are able to continue their employment and to support their families. To illustrate this, the results achieved by a few manufacturers. The Bucyrus company has reduced accidents 46 per cent since September 1911. The Fairbanks-Morse Manufacturing company of Beloit has reduced accidents 72 per cent since 1908. They act as a medical attention to the injured workman and the payment of a certain percentage of his loss of wage during disability. Prior to the passage of this act, the workmen were left to their own devices in the courts. Under the new law the common law they could recover, on the average in only one case out of seven. During the year ending June 30, 1913, the compensation act, $600,000 was paid out on account of personal injury cases. Of this amount the injured workmen received only $150,000. It actually cost the state $450,000 to the men who were hurt. In other words, the men who were hurt—lawyers, claim agents, adjusters, witnesses and court officers—received three times as much as the injured workmen.

"In January, 1914, compensatory was paid injured workmen on the basis of $900,000 a year. The cost of administering the law during that month was on the basis of less than $12,000 a year. # CLAIMS TORREON IS READY TO SURRENDER

General Villa is Confident That Federal Stronghold Will Be Occupied by Rebels To-night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Juarez, March 28.—Heavy fighting continued in Torreon today, according to a telegram just received from Gen. Villa, who expected to have the city by tonight. He gave no details.

It was with the expectation that Torreon would crumble under the rebel attack today that officials here this morning resumed their task.

The last reports yesterday were that Gen. Monroy Herrera had cut his way from the eastern side of the city through the business section to the bull ring on the north; that Gen. Villa had set out with more troops from Gomez Palacio to join him and take supreme command and that the federalists were making a final stand in the defenses on the west side.

An unconfirmed rumor at midnight had it that the rebels had taken the hill known as Cerro de La Cruz, an important defense, but verification still was lacking early today.

Latest advices from both Villa and newspaper correspondents indicated that the rebels had carried their assault into the very heart of Torreon and that the federalists were hard pressed. At that time it was Gen. Herrera's force of 4,000 who were reported to have taken the town from the east, and the counter march of Gen. Villa into Torreon from the north was expected to throw the federalists under Gen. Refugio Velasco into utter rout.

CROWNHART BACKS INDUSTRIAL BOARD COMMITTEE DIVIDED OVER ADJOURNMENT

Shows Success of Workmen's Compensation Law and State Industrial Commission.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 28.—Actual figures showing the success of the industrial commission in saving Wisconsin manufacturers thousands of dollars are an interesting exhibit in an article by Chairman C. H. Crownhart, of the industrial commission, in the Wisconsin Magazine. Writing of the prevention of industrial accidents and the saving of money thereby, Mr. Crownhart says:

"The commission in its three years of experience has met with success far beyond all expectations. It has treated the whole matter strictly as a business proposition. Industrial accidents are expensive. The employer can see that. To save life and limb saves money. This argument appeals to the business man more effectively than an appeal to his sympathies. The result is that the same humane lives are saved, suffering and pain are prevented, and workers are able to continue their employment and to support their families. To illustrate this, the results achieved by a few manufacturers. The Bucyrus company has reduced accidents 46 per cent since September 1911. This represents the enormous waste under the old system, but it does not represent the enormous waste under the new system. ## ROSE LOSES FIGHT; LEAVES ISSUE CLEAR

MILWAUKEE ELECTION STRUGGLE DIRECTED AGAINST SOCIALISTS.

CONTEST IS SPIRITED

But Political Wiseacres are Unable to See Where Socialists Can Gain 10,000 Votes in Two Weeks.

By Ellis B. Usher.
Milwaukee, March 23.—This city is evidently under obligations to David S. Rose for his attempt to be nominated for mayor last Tuesday, for he eliminated himself from Milwaukee politics and has opened the way for a square fight against the Socialist Democrats, which should promise their overwhelming defeat. A careful study of the returns shows that the vote was large. This was chiefly due to Rose. But the Socialists took second money, and polled more votes than most of the men who were now nominated against them. The votes split so very evenly as to be surprising, even in some of the wards. The vote on mayor was: Seidel, 21,132; Bading, 20,132; Rose, 16,422; and 2,292 for the Socialist ticket. Under our new non-partisan law this makes Bading and Seidel, as the high men, the candidates to be voted for on April 7. The Socialists cast only about one-third of the total vote and none of the wiseacres think they can raise their vote by 10,000 at the election. But the thing that is enforced upon public attention is that the Socialist party is the only one that the past ten or fifteen years of non-descript politics in Wisconsin has benefited. Other parties are Mexicanized. The Socialists run their politics as a secret society and profit by the personal politics that is pitted against them. They carried thirteen wards last Tuesday, while Bading carried eight and Rose four, so that not one more ward to their credit than Bading and Rose combined. They are profiting by the socialistic performances that the other parties and factions prate about as "progressive," and I don't wonder at it. They are the only progressive Democrats and Republicans are merely trying, as Dr. McCarthy aptly put it, to "beat them to it" under false colors.

1912 Tax Remission.
I am under obligations to Mr. Wilbur, whom I do not know but who is I am informed on the pay roll and close to the governor, for calling my attention to some careless writing in my last week's letter. It was not a matter of statistics, however. He calls attention to the remission of taxes in 1912 and says the remission was made by Secretary of State Frear and State Treasurer Dahl. In the governor's absence, and not by the present secretary and treasurer, as I said. But the gentleman splits hairs carefully, for he admits that the governor "advised that a remission be made." To suggest that I was not unfamiliar with the situation, I had heard for nearly a year that the La Follette men have been chuckling because "Jim" Frear and Dahl "put one over on McGovern" when this remission was made. My friend, Mr. Wilbur, makes this story look significant, for he appears to intimate that the only question with the governor was the amount of the remission, not the principle of it.

As to what I reported the governor to have said at Apicton, I will quote from an interview with him that appeared in the Sentinel of Sept. 20, 1913, the authenticity of which was not questioned at the time. Quoting the governor:

"There is no deficiency," said he. "Will there be a special tax levied to meet it?" was asked. "No," was the reply. "There is no deficiency in the state treasury, therefore there will be no need for a state tax."

Must Pay the Piper.
If this statement did the governor injustice he had ample notice for his ill reports come from a number of places where he spoke about that time and I have others in my scrapbook.

All this is quite unimportant, but it furnishes me an opportunity to say again and have before me repeatedly said, that Governor McGovern's little "kick" at the budget when he signed it, and Treasurer Johnson's statement about a shortage of funds, both contributed greatly to the misunderstanding now general, that having danced for some years "big bills" for the piper are now coming in and must be paid. I have no personal antipathies to either of these gentlemen, and like most of my fellow citizens am quite destitute of politics, for I don't see how anybody can stop the expenditure of money by anything that can be done at the coming election. The political machinery is in Mr. McGovern's hands and the people could not put an independent ticket into the field if a majority of them wanted to do so because of the election laws that they have helped to pass and which enthrone extravagance beyond successful assault.

Milwaukee Art Exhibit.
In the exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Wisconsin painters and sculptors, now at the gallery of the Milwaukee Art society, there are works of thirty-three Milwaukee artists, all of whom except two show paintings, and thirteen outside artists also exhibit paintings. The one way to see the exhibition is to go to the Jean P. Miner Coburn of Madison and Earl Grotzinger of Fond du Lac—sculpture. Of the exhibitors from other places in the state Delavan shows up with most strength both as to numbers and workmanship. Frank V. Dudley heads the Delavan contingent with a strong, well painted picture, one of the best shown, of "Thorn Creek in Winter." Florence M. Jones' "Mill Pond" and five pictures by three members of the Schulz family are a credit to them. Other state exhibitors are Margaret Baker, Edgerton; Burton S. Boundy, Oconomowoc; John M. Erickson, Wauwatosa; Joseph Felden, St. Francis; Ella Grotzinger, Chilton; Lester T. Full, Milton; Clara Molitor, Fond du Lac. There are some very good pieces of work in this exhibition, but as a whole it is not up to last year's exhibition of local work, although there are more exhibitors. It is, however, the first exhibition by the new society of Painters and Sculptors and another year ought to get them on a firm foundation where they will dare to have good standards and eliminate crude work that should not be admitted to such an exhibition on credit grounds. The one way to raise standards and make such exhibitions of value to the cause of art and to the artists themselves is to have a jury from Chicago and show no favoritism. Let merit alone be the excuse for hanging picture or admitting a piece of sculpture.

Getting Ready for Business.

The Milwaukee division of the Erie railroad, which is operated by way of the great lakes between here and Buffalo, is one of Wisconsin's dependable freight outlets to the east. In addition to the improvements which have already been mentioned in this letter, I have just learned that the steamers McCullough, Owego and Richardson have been ordered this winter at an expense that will exceed $50,000 and that they will go into commission with the opening of navigation fitted to save fuel and still get larger results. The policy of the Erie is to cut down the expense and at the same time obtain larger results in net income. General Agent Pheatt and his assistants in the Wisconsin field say that the Erie's business grows, and they tell me that these paragraphs help their business, which is the sole excuse for their appearance in this column.

Securities Lower.
One of the facts that is easily apparent to the intelligent taxpayer is that alongside of his increasing taxes is a decreasing value in many of the things upon which taxes are levied. Especially will he notice this fact where his investments are in stocks and bonds. I see that the annual report of one of the sound and responsible small life insurance companies of New England, the Union Mutual, says that the shrinkage in value of its holdings of railroad stocks and bonds amounts to more than $500,000 during the past year. New England roads have been hard hit, but no other railroad stocks are exempt, nor are any other stocks or securities. Every life insurance company and savings bank in the country has had to stand this sort of shrinkage, and like most other general conditions the people who feel it most are those of small income who have by struggling put something aside for a rainy day. They pay the railroad's taxes, the life insurance company's taxes and the savings bank's taxes, as well as their own taxes, and upon them falls the ultimate shrinkage of securities. No small man ever yet succeeded in taxing "the other fellow" or in making money by paying it out for wasteful government.

Rather than give up the principles which he prizes more than anything else, William Gibson, the second Baron of Ashbourne, who takes his seat in the English house of lords next month, dressed in the Irish costume which he loves so well, has lost an inheritance of $450,000. His father, the late Baron Ashbourne, the noted Unionist leader, left this princely fortune to the brother of the present lord because of his refusal to give up the Nationalist principles. Lord Ashbourne is probably the most enthusiastic of Nationalists. He wears the ancient Irish dress, speaks the Irish language and is a convert to Catholicism.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 2—An Interest Income For You and Your Children

"If one does not have the right regard for the value of money nor the importance of thrift in business relations he will be handicapped just so much in his striving toward success."—Ernest G. Draper.

HAVE you one income from the work of your hands and brain and another from the work of your savings?

It is an encouraging fact that the person who starts out to create capital for himself need not rely solely on his own energy.

The addition of interest will mount up wonderfully as time passes. In a few years your earned interest will be a considerable portion of the total of your accomplishment.

If you once get into the habit of saving and depositing something EVERY WEEK, no matter how moderate the sum, you are fairly started on the road to financial success because you are developing the habit of thrift.

You are simply buying future income when you use part of your regular income now to build up a fund whose earnings will reward you later.

The more you pay—that is, the larger your deposits—the greater your future income will be, either from the interest paid on savings, or as interests or dividends from securities when you graduate into the investor class.

Don't be content to limit your income to your own earning power. Add the earning power of SAVINGS to it.

You always want to shield that little daughter of yours from the harsh world, don't you?

Or if she must go out and battle with it, you want her to be as well prepared for the conflict as possible, do you not?

And that boy of yours—You have ambitions for him, of course.

Thrift in the home is a splendid heritage for either boy or girl.

Do you realize that your son will be a better business man and enjoy greater opportunities if he learns the value of money and saves some of it while he is growing up?

Do you know that your daughter will be a more sensible and attractive young person, and in time a better wife and mother, if, early in life she acquires the right attitude toward money and learns that spending it is not the only way to use it?

Besides the training in thrift which you give, your actual accumulation of a reserve fund for future requirements is important.

Parents, if you have already saved a little nest egg and there is a young child in your family in whose future education you are concerned, why not deposit $1,000 in the bank for the child now?

By the time the child is ready for college, there will be TWO thousand dollars waiting for him or her instead of ONE thousand, even if you never deposit another cent in the meantime.

The New York state boxing commission is ambitious to have charge of baseball in the Empire state. So successfully has it handled the fist affairs since its organization that it now regards itself capable of looking after the whole world of sport. It is state at least, and thus it is that the commission has asked the state legislature to appoint it the baseball guardian. Just why the commission should make the request does not appear, as it is certain that none of the various club owners or managers has suggested it. It would seem that the New York boxing commission forgets that we already have a national baseball commission.

Just why it should be so no one seems able to guess, but whenever a new white ball is thrown into the game, chief Myers, the Giant catcher, always signals for a slow curve. The thing has never been explained, but most every player in the league is wise to it and the weakest hitter in the league could be sure of a hit in such a case if Muggsy McGraw didn't keep an eagle eye on Myers. It would be a slow curve on every new ball with Myers, if Jawn wasn't there to shout his vigorous disapproval.

Next summer will be Fred Clarke's fifteenth season as a big league pitcher. And in that length of time he has made a very presentable record. In fact to date he holds a better record than anyone in a similar line of work. In his whole career as a manager he has never failed to finish in the first division. And in most all of the pennant races it has been

April First, Selling Fast.
With special interurban cars being scheduled from Beloit, Rockford and Belvidere, and an increased demand for tickets for the boxing exhibition at the Myers, April first, the promoters are confident of a packed house when the championship mill is staged. Fans throughout southern Wisconsin are ordering tickets and the best seats will be at a premium if the present demand keeps up.

Rockford has shown great interest in the outcome of the championship mill between Spike Kelly, champion welterweight, against Walter Bauman, whom local fans are certain will hold his own against the title holder for the ten rounds, and over a hundred of the Forest City fans have ordered tickets. Beloit is expected to be well represented despite the fact that the Light City bouts will be fought a week later, as sensational milling is expected in the main bout.

Harry Stout, of Milwaukee, will referee the bouts and Stout is admitted to be as good an official as there is in the west. He is being officiated at the champion bout between Wolgast and Nickle, and other important bouts in the west.

More interest is being aroused over the preliminary bout between George Launing of Salt Lake City and George Tennie of Milwaukee, two corners in the 142 pound class, who will travel for eight rounds in the bout. Launing's fight here will be his first appearance in the west, having started his boxing in the west and annexed the title of "Rocky Mountain" and come here as a winner.

Since the time of the unpleasant job of facing Hal Clark, the Milwaukee lightweights, Jimmy Welsh of Canada promises to give the fans a great run, and in his better to President George Hris declared that he was nearly down to weight, having been training for the past month for another bout in the latter part of the month.

Janesville fans who have watched Young Nichols in his nightly work, promise that Bobby Ward, the Beloit bearcat, will have to show more than he has before to take the Janesville youth's scalp back to the Blue City. Nichols, who is new at the game, shows promising ability and has the rudiments of the fight game in his mitts for Ward to solve.

Cornell and Columbia Finish Basketball Season With Equal Record—No National Champion.

Another intercollegiate basketball season has closed with the big championship five undetermined. In the east the race of the intercollegiate league, consisting of six of the leading colleges of the section, ended with Columbia and Cornell tied for first place. Each team won eight and lost two games. Yale was third with six games won and four lost. Because of faculty restrictions no attempt was made to play off the tie for the first place, although the Cornell and Columbia players and undergraduates were eager to see the question of supremacy settled.

In the middle west the conference race championship was won in impressive style by the University of Wisconsin, which played the twelve game schedule without meet-

JANESVILLE MEETS APPLETON TONIGHT IN TITLE CONFLICT

BOWER CITY FIVE ELIMINATES FOND DU LAC IN CLOSE GAME AT TOURNAMENT.

VICTORY IS PREDICTED

Janesville Players Will Again Return With State Honors If Dopesters Are Correct.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Appleton, Wis., March 28.—Continuing their march toward another state title the Janesville High School basketball team eliminated the Fond du Lac five by a score of 23 to 18 in the semifinals of the Lawrence college tournament here Friday evening. It was a royal battle with Janesville leading at every stage but one, toward the close of the last half when Fond du Lac with a spurt tied the score, 22 to 22, then went one point ahead by a free throw by Karst. There supremacy was short lived, however, when Dalton and Hemming got busy, each scoring a goal. The Janesville team will meet Appleton tonight in the tournament final. Dopesters here believe Janesville has the odds but it will be a hard struggle. The teams are well matched and the honor will be well earned whichever is successful.

True Championship Form.
The Janesville boys played in championship form in last night's game. They played a defensive game in the first half and few attempts were made by any of the men to score, Dalton counting three goals in that period, which was all that saved his team. The Fondy lads were fast and good dodgers and while they lost, they deserve credit for a scrappy game. The better team won, even though the score was very close.

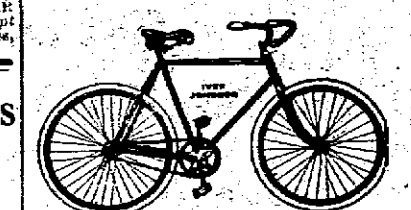

Atwood lost out a little in the first half, for some reason, unknown. He could not get started until the middle of the last half. Then he played at his best. Every Fondy man was watching him. Captain Hemming played defensive practically all of the game. He scored twice on quick and long jump shots. Stewart and Dalton are two of the best guards in the meet. The former is given credit for having held Karst, Fondy's best man, to three goals, while Dalton stopped Ellison from counting at all. Barnes, playing in Stickney's place at right forward, was a surprise to his team-mates and to the Janesville rooters, who numbered about thirty. He caged two goals, both of them coming when most needed.

Details of Play.
Dalton scored after two minutes of play. Hemming followed with a free throw. He then missed two shots in succession. Dalton scored again, bringing the total up to five to Fondy's zero. Hemming scored another free throw and a foul on Barnes was called. Karst counted. Hemming missed two more free throws, after which Karst scored one point. Dalton scored his third goal soon afterwards, giving Janesville eight points to Fondy's two. Captain Fitzgerald counted a goal from the center of the floor as the half ended. The crowd composed of Oshkosh, Appleton and Fondy delegations, numbering about 1,500 people, all rooted for Fond du Lac.

Janesville started slow in the second half. Ellison was given a gift of a foul by Barnes. Hemming counted a free throw. Karst, by good floor work, was able to score a pretty field goal. The score was 9 to 7 in Janesville's favor. Karst again scored, this time a free throw. Rick the center immediately followed with a goal, and Fond du Lac led by a 12 to 9 count. Karst again scored a free throw, followed by Hemming's first goal of the game. Dalton and Atwood, on signals, each counted, and Janesville played defensive during the four minutes left to play. Hemming and Barnes each counted as time was called.

Janesville is the choice in the game tomorrow night with Appleton, although a close contest is assured. Stickney declares he will play in the title game.

Appleton-Oshkosh Game.
The second game of the evening was between Appleton and Oshkosh fives and was a poor exhibition of basketball. Oshkosh attempted to rough matters and were poor losers. The final score was 32 to 21. Appleton played a fast game and smothered Oshkosh on floor work. The line-ups and scores of both games follow:

Tournament Notes.
Stickney's knee has bothered him a little during his stay here, and after consulting a physician he was ordered to stay out of the Fond du Lac game. Barnes took his place and showed up in good form.

At the conclusion of the tournament Saturday night ten co-eds will judge the teams in appearance and conduct. Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, will award the prizes to the winning teams.

The dope on the tournament at present stands in favor of Janesville, with perhaps Atwood, Hemming and Dalton being all-state men on Referee E. G. Schroeder's selection. Stewart is a strong contender for a guard position.

The best game of the meet thus far was played Thursday afternoon between the Fond du Lac and Menominee teams. Both fives were full of fight.

The Janesville squad is receiving the best kind of treatment at the meet, and are extended courtesies at every turn. Their conduct is good in every respect. Friday afternoon they were given an auto ride over the city, which lasted for over an hour. Tickets for the theaters were given the players for yesterday's performances.

Before the Fond du Lac game Friday night Coach Curtis forced his men to nap for a couple of hours. All went into the game in excellent condition, with the exception of Stickney, who watched the game from the sidelines.

Appleton papers give Captain Hemming and Atwood praise after praise. Every time a basket is made by either of these two men, the crowds go wild. Dalton is the best floor man in the tournament at present. Karst, of Fond du Lac, is next best. A close fight between these two men is noticeable, and it will require keen judgment in picking the best man of the two.

MARK CATLIN PUTS TWO LOCAL PLAYERS ON ALL STATE FIVE

Lawrence College Coach Picks Hemming as Captain of Tournament Team—Dalton For Guard.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Appleton, March 28.—Mark Catlin has picked the following all-state basketball team:

THE APOLLO.

Rush Ling Toy, the Chinese magician, is baffling the Apollo audiences with his marvelous feats of magic. He and his assistants keep everyone guessing how they do it in spite of the fact that all tricks are done in plain view. One of his feats is to cause the disappearance of a young lady assistant while on the stage in sight of all. She is next seen coming down the aisle from the back of the house.

Frankel models the face of prominent men and women today and in history from clay, doing it in a rapidly that is wonderful. He keeps a thread of comedy running through his act, that leaves no uninteresting moment.

Louise Craig sings a selected program of songs and delights all with her beautiful voice.
A strong dramatic picture feature comes to the Apollo on Thursday, A Bargain With Satan in five parts.

NEW PRESIDENT OF THE CHICAGO CUBS

Charles H. Thomas is the new president of the Chicago Cubs. He was born in Gardner, Mass., thirty-eight years ago and has been in baseball fourteen years. He was assistant secretary of the New York Giants from 1900 to 1905. From that time until his recent appointment as president he acted as treasurer of the Cubs.

Because It Is The Hudson Six-40

THE WIDELY WANTED MEDIUM PRICED SIX

Thousands have waited for this medium priced light Six. All motorists concede the vast superiority of the Six. Yet many continue to drive Fours because they fear a large Six will prove costly to run. And because the price is more than they care to pay. The Hudson Six-40—some call it the "HUDSON LIGHT SIX"—at $1750, is Howard E. Coffin's answer to this wide demand.

He has built a light Six to correspond with the mental motor-car of a hundred thousand men. It is low in price—costs little to run. It is ready for you, now—the car you've waited for.

The Easiest Riding Car We Know.

We believe this Hudson Light Six to be the easiest riding car in the world.

We say this having knowledge of every American car; of every European car. Never within the wide experience of Hudson men has there been produced a car with such truly wonderful riding qualities.

You sit in a softly cushioned seat and over the roughest roads you seem to float on air while the buildings, the trees and the hills glide swiftly by. It feels as if the road moved—not the car—so gentle is the motion.

Miles are shorter and pleasure longer when you ride in the Hudson Six-40.

A Few of Its Many Advantages

Light weight—2940 pounds; about 18 pounds to the inch, over all.

Economy of fuel-consumption—14 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Six-cylinder motor—cylinders 3 1/2 x 5 inches, developing 47 horsepower, smoothly, flexibly, without jerk or jar.

"One-man" top, with quick adjustable, permanently attached side curtains, folded in top.

Left-side drive, right-hand (center) control, dimming headlights, new speedometer drive, and (of course) electric lighting and starting.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled and cloudy, probably with rain or snow tonight and Sunday. Not much change in temperature.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

There are some things which never grow old, and some customs which are handed down from generation to generation. This is especially true of the South, where the orange blossoms and mocking bird are as much in evidence today, as they were before the war.

The northern people who visit this land of perpetual summer for a month or two in the winter season, are always impressed with the notion that the natives, like their forefathers, continue to take time to live, and are never in a hurry. The big plantations no longer exist, but the descendants of the planters are here, for the southerner seldom migrates, and he knows the limitations of his country so well that northern enthusiasm does not disturb him.

Scattered over southwestern Florida are scores of deserted shacks, where some northern adventurer, lured by the climate, and deceived by the shrewd promoter, has attempted to make a living, and failed. A few acres of ground, with here and there an orange tree, tell the story of disappointed ambition.

These little deserted farms are never the property of the natives. If they own any land it is simply a garden patch. They discovered long ago that the tourist and northern sucker are more prolific than the soil, and so the visitor is intelligently cultivated.

But little is heard this winter about draining the Everglades of Florida, and the scheme seems to have been abandoned, after squandering several million dollars worth of state and government money, while the only people who have profited are the land sharks who have sold worthless land galore to northern investors.

Lake Ocochobe, just west of Palm Beach, on the east coast, is a body of water forty miles long and half as wide, and the people were led to believe that this lake could be drained and several million acres of fertile soil redeemed. Surveyors spent a year at work, and then reported that there was twenty feet of fall to an outlet seventy miles south of the lower end of the lake at Fort Lauderdale, near Miami, and then the work of dredging was commenced.

The first canal was completed last year, extending from the lake to Fort Lauderdale on the south, but when the water was turned in from the lake it was found that the ocean tide setting in from the south was stronger than the current, and of course the drainage was a farce.

The big ditch is now utilized by tourists, a line of small boats running from Fort Meyers, on the west coast, up the Caloosahatchee river to the foot of the lake, and down the ditch to Fort Lauderdale, but the Fort has already lost its novelty. A gentleman who went over it recently, said he spent a week in fighting mosquitoes, with the boat stuck in the mud half the time, and nothing in sight but saw grass.

The orange crop of Florida is very prolific this year, and the fruit was never better. The little hotel at Cleveland is supplied by small growers, in the neighborhood, at the rate of one dollar a box.

The railroads and express companies have practically killed the state, as rates are prohibitive to small shippers. The new parcels post schedule may bring some relief, but the state is thirteen hundred miles from market, and that will always be a handicap.

The pine forests have been destroyed, to such large extent that the frost line now extends to Key West. The tomato crop on the east coast was frozen stiff on the vines when ready to harvest, about ten days ago, and other crops were injured.

Politically the state is in a hey day of glory for with the Wilson administration the South has come into its own, and this is really one of the redeemable features of democratic success.

While the North paid a heavy penalty in blood and treasure, the South was the battlefield, and the country still shows the marks of devastation. The sacrifice of life was in proportion to the North, and the sacrifice of treasure was immeasurably greater, for the South gave all it possessed, and the defeat which followed meant bankruptcy and ruin.

But the age of bitterness expired with the old generation, and the fragment remaining, talk about the war with the broadest charity. Two brothers by the name of Wade, are guests at the little hotel at Cleveland. They were large planters in Tennessee, when the war broke out, and while their sympathies were with the Union, they felt compelled to join the confederate forces, and for three years with a will to redeem their losses, and succeeded. Today they are white-haired old men past eighty, but not a word of complaint is heard, and their loyalty is beyond question.

The young men of the South know more about the war than the young men of the North, because of their environment. To them it means more than history, for they share in the struggles of rehabilitation, yet they know but one flag and one country, and see no reason why they should not be recognized at the seat of government.

The Wilson administration is doing more to cement the Union, than all other forms combined, and the North can well afford to make a note of the fact.

The prejudice entertained against the colored race is not inspired by hatred, and the colored man is more intelligently treated in the South today, than in any other part of the country.

The South was democratic fifty years ago, and it is just as democratic today. It has never been disturbed by a tide of immigration, and while some of the larger cities are being developed by the aid of northern capital and northern enterprise, the political complexion does not change, for the northern man soon discovers that white rule is necessary to peaceful existence.

The colored race were children of the South before the war, and treated as children. They are children of the South today, care-free, with no thought of responsibility. No false sentiment exists concerning them. They are a part of the land which gave them birth, and if the race problem is ever settled, it will be settled on southern soil, where conditions are thoroughly understood.

The republican party of the South has but little excuse for existence, and southern representatives will continue to be a farce for many years to come.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

MAKING EVERYTHING EASY.

Life being what we make it we should make it easy.

So runs the modern doctrine. But is there not grave danger that we may make it too easy?

Short cuts are not always the best, safest ways home. Abridged methods and processes do not always produce the same results as the older, surer ways.

Easy writing still makes hard reading, and genius is still an infinite capacity for taking pains, despite what the improvers of methods say.

Recently there was an electrical show in one of the large cities. Various excellent devices for lessening labor and brightening life were shown. But there was one which elicited more smiles of amusement than nods of approval.

It was an exercise machine whereby the lazy man may obtain exercise while lying down.

(The electrical experts called it a "sinusoidal current machine," the humorists dubbed it a "hookworm chaser.")

By the use of this apparatus the lazy man may obtain exercise while lying down. The peculiarity of the device is that its current reverses itself at regular intervals and at each reversal the muscles through which it is passing receive a distinct pull. By passing the current through the arm, for example, the patient receives benefit similar to that derived from regular exercise.

Substitute for exercise, forsooth! As though there could be such a thing! Not only are there substitutes for muscular exercise on the market, but there are also substitutes for the mental exertion which is essential to the proper development of the perceptive and reasoning faculties.

Thinking for oneself worries a person, so he lets others do his thinking for him. Or, worse still, he seeks the aid of the cheap and popular "thinking machines," such as the daily newspaper or the magazine, instead of going to the sources of knowledge and wisdom, the books in which are embodied and crystallized the experience of the ages.

This is not to decry the reading of the newspaper and the magazines. They serve useful purposes in the world and are, in fact, indispensable under modern conditions.

But the reading of them should be supplemented with the books which have been tried and tested.

Stevenson's Lack of Grammar.

Robert Louis Stevenson's biographer says of him: "In every language he learned the grammar remained unknown to him, however correctly he might use its idioms, and the spelling of his own tongue was dark to him to the very last."

Discouraging.

Her admirer swallowed hard, pulled at his collar, and finally made up his mind. "Lillian," he said desperately, "let's get married!" Lillian's bored expression vanished. "All right," she agreed; "but who can you marry?"—Judge.

Kickapoo Worm Killer Expels Worms

LICENSE QUESTION FREELY DISCUSSED

Reverend T. D. Williams Writes Communication on the Question.—Others May Follow.

N. B. While the Gazette believes that the submitting of the question of license or no-license for the consideration of the voters of Janesville at this time is ill-advised and untimely, and has so expressed its editorial opinion in the proper columns, it has thrown the news columns of the paper open to a free discussion of the subject. It is not expected that this privilege will be abused and in order that matter submitted for publication can be edited and properly handled makes the ruling that all communications must be received in the office before four o'clock of the day previous to publication and are subject to editorial comment and possible rejection if not of suitable character. The discussion of matters of civic interest is not confined to this one question, and citizens should feel free to submit communications on other questions, but it is expected that all communications be signed by the writer. It will be impossible to handle articles of column length and shorter articles are solicited rather than longer ones.

EDITOR.

The No-License Campaign. Prompted no doubt by the generous offer in the editorial department of the Gazette last evening, the campaign committee asked me to prepare a statement for the readers of the Saturday publication.

What I may say must be brief and preliminary to what will be written in the columns of the press and elaborated in formal address on the platform. First of all let us state that this campaign is not a reflection on the administration of the city hall. He who forces that interpretation upon it is not familiar with the movements of the campaign committee. The plan is to hold a referendum on the question of license in the city of Janesville.

Edgerton, Whitewater, Beloit, our neighboring cities—are presenting the question to the people. No one interprets it as a reflection on the officials of those cities. In Rockford the vote has been asked on the question of a city that has the courage and patriotism to get along without it. This campaign is not launched in the interests of any candidate for office. It is not launched to jeopardize the interests of any candidate. If a political candidate insists on allying himself with one side of the question, of course we cannot prevent it. This is a non-political, non-factional, non-sectarian movement. It is the interest of all faiths and political creeds. The camp has doors on all sides and into it all are invited, who seriously question the moral right of a city to sell contracts to certain people to deal in a commodity that makes such inroads upon the health and sanity and morals of the people. This question was before the people four years ago. The sum total of the vote at that time was about the same as the vote cast at the primary last Tuesday. 333 voters changing their vote from license to no-license would have settled it then. A marked change has come over the character of our people since then. Men are coming and going. The undesirable transients have been reduced to a minimum. Men of deep temperance convictions have moved to the city. Many of them from no-license communities. They wonder why we have continued the policy in the light of what is developing all over the country. We are confident that the sober judgment of this city will welcome the open discussion of this question and the opportunity to vote on it.

and more from other channels. The state tax commissioner of Massachusetts has just published the average tax for five years. License towns and cities $1.75 per $1,000. No-license towns and cities $1.50 or $1.00 per $1,000 in favor of no-license towns and cities. In five years the same showing other things being equal might be made in Janesville. Some argue that we ought to wait till the state or nation votes dry.

A city is a corporate unit for the adjustment of many of its affairs. 46,029,750, or a fraction over one-half of our population are now living in communities where they have taken this question into their own hands and have not waited for the constitutional amendment that will come when public sentiment is wide-spread and strong enough to demand it as a part of the sovereign law of the land. "Charlie begins at home," and this is an opportunity to express it. Let us during these few days study the findings of science, the medical profession and the expert investigators in chemistry and economics and vote accordingly.

WHITEWATER

Whitewater, March 28.—Friday afternoon the preliminary contest took place at the high school for the purpose of choosing the four best girl and boy speakers to speak at our home contest. Six girls completed and the following four were chosen: Helen Magoon, Ada Stenert, Urna Dutcher, and Mary Marshall. Only four of the boys who were to contest were present, the others being absent because of illness, so their preliminary was postponed.

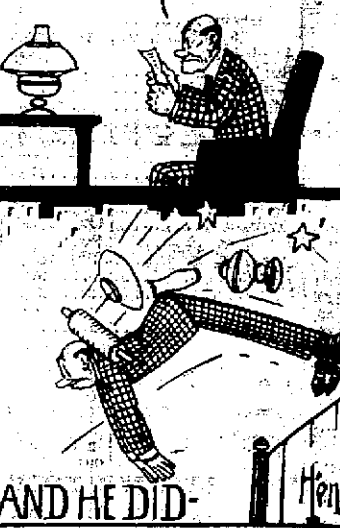

Company C. had inspection Thursday night.

ON FARM IS SOUGHT

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE PRO-

FESSIONS CONDUCT FARM-

ERS' MEETING TODAY.

RESULTS OF CONTEST

Charles Lathers, Beloit, F. H. Raess-

ler, Beloit, and Elam P. Coon,

Milton Junction, Win-

Honors.

Prof. H. D. Otis and Prof. H. M.

Elliot of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, were in Janesville today for a purpose of conducting a meeting of Rock and Jefferson county farmers in connection with the state farm management contest which the agricultural college has been conducting for the past year. The meeting today which held the Y.

M. G. A. building, prize winners for Rock county were announced as follows:

First: Charles Lathers, Beloit.

Second: F. H. Raessler, Beloit.

Third: Elam P. Coon, Milton Junction.

These men will receive prizes of $12

$8 and $5 offered by the Rock County

National Bank of this city, which has taken an active interest in the movement.

The Jefferson county winners are as follows:

First: Henry Anthon, Jefferson.

Second: Frank Guttenberg, Jefferson.

Third: Arthur Popp, Jefferson.

The six farmers announced above and the records of their farms for the past season are eligible to enter the state farm management contest in which ten counties are entered. This is the fourth county meeting which has been held during the contest and this is the first time that Rock county has had a part in the competition.

"This is the first farm management contest in the United States," said

Prof. Otis in making his announcement which counted, and said:

"We have recognized the man who has produced the best horse, the best cow, the best corn, the best oats, etc.,

but we have never paid any attention to the man who exercises executive ability in dovetailing all the different enterprises together to make the farm pay a profit and at the same time maintain or increase the fertility, enjoy home life, keep up the health of his livestock and maintain a good general appearance.

"The purpose of this work is to study conditions on the farm and to bring out the factors making for success. It is a means of bringing each farmer in the farm contest face to face with the results obtained on his farm and to see how his farm comparates with the average for the county, the average for the state, the average of the best ten in the state and the average of the poorest ten. The strong and weak points in the operation of his individual farm are thus brought to light. Each farm in the contest is given a number and each farmer is given his own number.

There were eleven farms in Rock and Jefferson counties which were considered and judged according to the following score card: managerial income, 50 points; maintenance of fertility, 20 points; home life, 20 points;

health of herd, 10 points; general appearance, 5 points.

When's A Man Drunk? Here's One That Was

A man not drunk when from the floor. He still can rise and drink some more. But he is drunk who on the floor Can neither rise or drink some more.

When is a man drunk? This perplexing and much mooted question popped up in municipal court this morning when Carl Egbert of Beloit, was arraigned on the charge of drunkenness.

Egbert readily admitted his guilt and willingly explained his ideas on intoxication in response to Judge Maxfield's questions. "A man is drunk when he falls down," said Egbert, and described his own condition after four hours spent in Janesville, by saying: "Your Honor, I was so intoxicated that when I fell down I had to hang onto the grass to keep from falling off the earth."

When the court had recovered from a fit of laughter, the Beloit humorist declared that he had started to catch the eight o'clock car, but "Guessed he never got there."

After imposing a sentence of five dollars or five days, Judge Maxfield told Egbert that if he ever came to jail again, he would be brought to court, his truthfulness and humor would not save him from a longer term.

John Ward of Orfordville was also unable to come to court, and was punished a new suit without imbibing too freely and on his plea of guilty in court this morning was given a five day sentence in default of a fine amounting to six dollars. Ward was arrested by Night Captain Sam Brown on Milwaukee street last night.

Side Lights On The Circus Business By D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)
In last week's "billboard," a theatrical and circus paper, there appeared a picture of Sally Marks, who for many years has been a famous bareback rider. Many of the old residents of Janesville will remember little Sally Marks, as she was known in Janesville while the Marks family made their home here for something like three years. The family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Marks, Minnie, Willie and Sally, the three children, all being riders, and Minnie, the oldest of the trio, in the middle seventies was known as the best lady rider of her time.

It was at the ring barn on the old Burr Robbins farm where Sally Marks received her first education as a bareback rider when she was something like eight or nine years old, and she thinks it was in the spring of 1877

TAKE SODA FOR SOURNESS, GAS OR INDIGESTION

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and alkalis which inflame the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

To get instant relief he tells us to get a package of 10 grain Sodagen tablets at any pharmacy and take one or two tablets anytime, followed by a tumbler of water which promptly neutralizes this irritating acid; stops fermentation; absorbs the gases and sweetens the entire digestive system. A local downtown druggist states that these 10 grain Sodagen tablets are an old favorite antacid constantly prescribed because of their harmlessness, being simply a compound of Soda, Calcium Carbonate and Magnesia U. S. P.

that she made her first appearance before an audience, at the opening of the Burr Robbins show in Janesville early in May of that year.

From that on Sally Marks has been in the business continuously, and while today she is a woman of forty-six or seven years of age, she is still eagerly sought by circus managers. It was along in about seventy-nine or eighty that Minnie Marks married Charley Robinson of Cincinnati, the youngest son of John Robinson, whose name has been before the public for more than fifty years as a famous circus owner.

Hiram Marks, the father, was ring master of the show, and Mrs. Marks looked after the wardrobe and her family of children, all of whom were riders. For three years the Marks family was the one big feature of the Burr Robbins show. During their stay in Janesville the Marks children made many friends among the young people and attended the public school here for one or two winters. George Middleton, who is now living here, was Sally and her brother, Willie, both of whom are still in the business.

A few days ago I met a friend who had spent most of the winter in California, and he said that he had met a friend of mine in Pasadena who knew me when I was in the show business. This man was George Middleton, who for many years made his home in Chicago and who got his first start in the show business with the circus. It was along in the late seventies that the firm of Cole & Middleton opened the first dime museum in Chicago, on Clark street, near Madison. Cole & Middleton were the pioneers in the dime museum business and it was there they laid the foundation for their great fortune in the business. Ed. Cole, Mr. Middleton's partner, died a few years ago at his beautiful summer home at Oconomowoc, and along about that time George Middleton retired from the business and settled in Pasadena, Cal., where he says he expects to pass the remainder of his days.

The firm of Cole & Middleton was known all over the United States and for many years their office in the dime museum building on Clark street was made headquarters of show men in all kinds of business, and many a broken down show man received a helping hand from Cole & Middleton as far back as thirty-five years ago. It was at this museum that many of the side show people who traveled with the circus during the summer would find work during the winter at the Clark street museum, and in fact at their houses of amusement, which they managed in different parts of the country.

The famous comedians, Weber &amp;

Fields, who closed a long engagement at the Auditorium in Chicago last Sunday night, were originally in the circus business as comedians and show men, and after the Burr Robbins show was sold to Tom Greiner, the theatrical man of Chicago, they played several weeks' engagements in the outskirts of Chicago, moving to a different location every night. In conversation with some friends last week Lew Fields told the following: "Twenty-eight years ago next summer Joe and I played such clown parts with Greiner Brothers' circus for fourteen weeks in Chicago, moving to a new lot each night. We got $40 a week, joint and board, but I'd like to forget the last time."

Allen Sells' ambition to become a circus manager was stirred by George Richards, a noted cannon ball performer, who pointed to the success of Forepaugh, Robinson, and other famous circus men, and he was converted.

Ephraim was gardening in Cleveland and Peter was a reporter on the Ohio State Journal. A stranded circus left a few wagons in Columbus and Allen got possession of them. He talked circus by day and dreamed circus by night, but his brother Lewis was prevailed upon to accompany Richards and Allen to a sale, which consisted of a few animals, cages, etc. and when the sale was over he found himself in Chicago, of a den of lions and other property.

Lewis was always pessimistic. He strenuously argued that the combined wealth of himself (which amounted to $2,700, exclusive of his circus property) and his brother Allen was not nearly enough to launch a circus. Richards, who desired the side show privileges in addition to performing his feats in the big show, contended they were amply able to finance the concern. He talked more strongly than ever, and thus it was that the Sells and Lewis Sells launched the Silberburg shows, which afterwards became the great European shows.

Peter Sells began his career as an advance agent of the Silberburg shows on a small salary. He continued as the agent of the show on salary until February, 1878, when an offer came to him from James A. Bailey of $5,000 a year, which was more than double the salary he received from his brothers. It was then that Peter was given an interest in the show and it was at this time that the title of the show was changed to "The Sells Bros. Seven Elephant Show." Then the show went on rail for the first time and was the first time the name of Sells was ever used on any advertising of the show. This was the first season a lithograph or cut of any of the Sells brothers was ever used with the show. Ephraim, Allen and Lewis, brothers of Peter, were all opposed to the use of their names or their portraits in advertising.

Rains, bad roads, and a shortage of harness to move the wagons of the show contributed to its hardships the first few weeks. The proprietors, out of money, with the depression that comes to all under similar circumstances, appealed to Ephraim, and he came on to the company with a few hundred dollars. The next day the sun shone, and the first good day's business of the season came to the show. The receipts were nearly $1,200. Ephraim hastened to Cleveland, mortgaged his garden farm for $3,000 and returned, buying horses and other necessary equipment. He became the treasurer of the show, and which had come new life and hope, and held the position for many years.

HOLD SERVICES FOR J. A. CARVER SUNDAY

Nominate Ticket at Village Caucus Held Friday—J. B. Taylor Named as President.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Orfordville, March 28.—The funeral of the late John Carver will be held from the M. E. church in Orfordville on Sunday at 12:30 o'clock and from the M. E. church in Orfordville at 2:30, conducted by the pastor. Interment will be at Maple Grove cemetery.

John Addison Carver was born Aug. 13, 1847, in Luzerne county, Pa., and when he died last Wednesday, March 25, he was in his sixty-seventh year. He was the son of Samuel and Sarah Smiley Carver, who were originally eastons, but later moved to Plymouth, in 1852, bringing John with them, who was a child of five years. Of the original family of twelve there are but five remaining members—Lyman Carver of California, Levi and Charles Carver of Iowa, and Mrs. Lydia Key, both of Beloit.

Mr. Carver had been twice married and is survived by the only child, born by his first marriage, Fred S. Carver of Beloit. John Carver was united in marriage with Miss Julia Ross at Cleveland, O., Sept. 17, 1885. Mrs. Carver remains to mourn her husband's sudden demise.

Mr. Carver was not considered seriously sick when he was taken ill on Sunday, but alarming symptoms developed, and although all that loving care and skillful attention could do was done, it was evident that nothing could save our friend. He was aware of his condition and was able to give some assistance to his wife, child, and friends, that he was ready for the call. In the estimation of his family, our friend held a loving place. By his neighbors he was esteemed a fine, honorable gentleman, whose character was unimpeachable. Increasing deafness of late years made it difficult for our friend to take part in all the activities of life, but he bore his handicap right bravely and with a welcome to the work of a new building as there are fellers working on it.

On the Spur of the Moment

Competition.
The Ams, the Nats and the Feds are ransacking their heads to interest the baseball fan. And get all of his trade they can. We may expect the rival camps to offer him some trading stamps or car for his patronage. To bid for trade. They may put up free lemonade. Free ice cream cones and peanuts, too. Ever they are through. Yes they even may set forth free pop. Before they stop. If competition grows more keen, they may even offer well to pay the fans to come and see them play. The war is on in earnest and the baseball bugs think it is grand. The ultimate consumer of baseball is offered all. He is sure to get his patronage. A golden age. His days of groveling are past. He's come into his own at last.

In just a short time we will have to change our brand of unhappiness. Instead of being froze to death, people will be suffering from heat prostrations.

To him that hath shall be given, but by grant I'd have my own digestion than Rockefeller's oil company.

So long as a fool ain't got enough sense to know he is a fool, there ain't much harm done.

It is a curious mean of a feller never to have a cold, for it deprives all of his friends of the pleasure of recommending forty different cures for it.

There are always about five times as many fellers standing and watching the work on a new building as there are fellers working on it.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, March 28, 1874.
Hon. J. B. Doe has been appointed trustee of the institution of the Blind vice Norcross, whose term expires on the 3rd of April.
A. S. Hoskins and J. B. Carle the executive committee appointed at a meeting of the citizens, have appointed Dr. Home a canvasser in the third ward to solicit contributions for the relief of the destitute in Iowa.

Fred Morse son of the senior member of the firm of Morse, Hanson, and Co., has accepted a position as manager of the mercantile establishment in the city of Ishpeming, Mich.

Wheeler Bowen left this morning for Davenport, Ia., where he has accepted a position as city editor of the Davenport Gazette.

Rev. George Williams arrived in this city yesterday to assume his duties as pastor of the Congregational church.

Marshall Crotzenburg informs us that he has no desire to be elected constable of the 3rd ward.

Herman Bucholz has been named by his friends as a candidate for school commissioner of the second ward.
At a special meeting of the Y. M. A., the trustees were authorized to enter into an agreement with the Sons of Temperance whereby the latter are to occupy jointly the rooms now held by the Y. M. A.

Alas, How True!

"This doctrine of the excellence of woman, however chivalrous, is cowardly as well as false," says Stevenson. "It is better to face the facts and know that though she may have angelic features, eat nothing to speak of and sing ravishingly in church she may be a little devil after all."

See the Modart
Front Laced
Corset

Before You Buy Your Spring Corset

SEE how beautifully the MODART is made—feel how light and soft it is. Its silky stitching greatly increases the life of the corset. All metal parts are nickel-plated on brass—boning is pliable, supplying just enough support to afford the fullest freedom and ease to the wearer.

The fairest way of presenting the MODART is by a trial fitting. The designing perfection that we claim for MODART Corsets we want you to prove.

Only a fitting enables you to feel its ease over the diaphragm—to see its rare style. The range of models is wide, embracing the wants of every type of figure.

Good Hint.
Vermion of no kind will stay upon clothing that is scented with either oil of cloves, oil of cinnamon, anise oil, or cedar oil. This is a valuable secret for the traveler, for a small bottle will protect him from the vermin often found in hotel beds. No bedbug will venture between sheets so scented and a few drops is all that is required.

ECZEMA ON SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

Would Fester and Come to Head.
Could Not Sleep. Hair Fell Out.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment
Cured in Two Weeks.

R. F. D. No. 2, Seymour, Mo. — "My scalp broke out with fine pimples at the start. They itched and burned so much that I was compelled to scratch them and come to a head and break out again. The trouble was attended by such burning and itching I could not sleep, also when I sweat it burned the same. My hair fell out gradually and the scalp kept rough and dry with itching and burning. After about two years the pimples broke out between my shoulders. My clothing irritated them. I was troubled with that eczema five or six years.

"I tried everything that was recommended without any benefit until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment according to directions, and Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me sound and well in two weeks." (Signed) S. L. Killian, Nov. 23, 1912.

For pimples and blackheads the following is most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

But Anthony paid no heed. "Gret trouble. Dah's fish en she ain' atead. En dah's watch en she ain' atead. En Ah sees yo' gwine ter him, honey. Ah heah's de co'ot-house clock a-strikin' in de night—en yo' gwine. Don't wait, don't wait, I'll mistis, er de trouble—cloud gwine kyah him erway from yo' a . . . When de clock strike thuh-teen—when de clock strike thuh-teen—"

The droning voice ceased. The gaunt form became rigid. Then he started and turned his eyes slowly about him, a vague look of anxiety on his face. For a moment no one moved. When he spoke again it was once more in his gentle quavering voice.

"Watah? Yas, Mars, good watah. He's yo'self!"

The judge set a dollar bill on the step and weighted it with a stone, as the rest remounted. "Well, good-by, Anthony," he said. "We're mighty obliged."

He sprang into the saddle and the quartette cantered away. "My experiment wasn't a great success, I'm afraid, Shirley," he said ruefully.

"Oh, I think it was splendid!" cried Nancy. "Do you suppose he really believes those spooky things? I declare, at the time I almost did myself. 'What an odd idea—when the clock strikes thirteen,' which, of course, it never does."

"Don't mind, Shirley," bantered Lusk. "When you see all 'dem troubles' coming, sound the alarm and we'll fly in a body to your rescue."

They let their horses out for a pounding gallop which pulled down suddenly at a muffled shriek from Betty Page, as her horse went into the air at sight of an automobile by the roadside.

"Now, whose under the canopy is that?" exclaimed Lusk.

"It's stalled," said Shirley. "I passed here this afternoon when the owner was trying to start it, and I sent Uncle Jefferson as first aid to the injured."

"I wonder who he can be," said Nancy. "I've never seen that car before."

"Why," said Betty gaily, "Ah know! It's Mad Anthony's trouble-man, of course, come for Shirley."

CHAPTER VII.

Uncle Jefferson.

A red rose, while ever a thing of beauty, is not invariably a joy forever. The white bulldog, as he plodded along the sunny highway, was sunk in depression. Being trampled by the limitations of a canine horizon, he could not understand the whims of Adorable Ones met by the way, who seemed so glad to see him that they threw both arms about him, and then tied to his neck irksome colored weeds that prickled and scratched and would not be dislodged. So it was a chastened and shamed Chum who at length wriggled stealthily into the seat of the stranded automobile beside his master and thrust a dirty pink nose into his palm.

John Vallant lifted his hand to stroke the shapely head, then drew it back with an exclamation. A thorn had pricked his thumb. He looked down and saw the dragged flower thrust through the twist of grass. "Oh, pup of wonders!" he exclaimed. "Where did you get that rose?"

Chum sat up and wagged his tail, for his master's tone, instead of ridicule, held a dawning delight. Perhaps the thing had not been intended as a disgrace, after all!

With the first sight of the decoration Vallant had had a sudden memory of a splash of vivid red against the belted gray-blue of a gown. He grinned appreciatively. "And I warned her," he chuckled. "Told her not to be afraid!" He dusted the blossom painfully with his handkerchief and held it to his face—a live brilliant thing, breathing musk-odors of the mid-moon of paradise.

A long time he sat, while the dog dozed and yawned on the shiny cushion.

"Howdy Do, Anthony," He Said.

ion beside him. Of a sudden Chum sat up and barked in earnest.

Turning his head, his master saw approaching a dilapidated hack with side lanterns like great goggles and decrepit and palsied curtains. It was drawn by a lean mustard-tinted mule, and on its front sat a colored man of uncertain age, whose hunched vertebrae and outward-crooked arms gave him a curious expression of reptile and bulbous inquiry. Abreast of the car he removed a moth-eaten cap.

"Evenin', suh," he said, "evenin', evenin'."

"Howdy do," returned the other amiably.

"Ah reckon yo'll done had er breck-down wid dat machine-thing dar. Yo' been hyuh 'bout er hour, ain' yo'?"

"Nearer three," said Vallant cheerfully, "but the view's worth it."

A hoarse titter came from the conveyance, which gave forth sundry creakings of leather. "Huyh! Huyh! Late, suh. Dat's so! Hum-m. Reck'n Ah'll be gittin' erlong back."

He chuckled to the mule and proceeded to turn the vehicle round.

"Hold on," cried John Vallant. "I thought you were bound in the other direction."

"No, suh. Ah'm gwine back whah I come from. Ah jus' druv out hyuh 'case Miss Shirley done met me, en she say, 'Unc' Jefferson, yo' go' truckley out de Red Road, 'case er gemman done got stalled-ah.'"

"Oh—Miss Shirley. She told you, did she? What did you say her first name was?"

"Dat's huh first name, Miss Shirley. Yas, suh! Miss Shirley done said I me ter come en git de gemman whut—whut kinder dawg is yo' got dar?"

"It's a bulldog. Can you give me a lift? I've got that small trunk and—"

"Dat's a right fine dawg. Miss Shirley she mighty fond ob dawgs, too."

"Fond of dogs, is she?" said Vallant.

"I might have known it. It was nice of her to send you here, Uncle Jefferson. You can take me and my traps, I suppose."

"Pens on whah yo' gwine ter," answered Uncle Jefferson sapiently.

"I'm going to Damory Court."

A kind of shocked surprise that was almost stupefaction spread over the other's face, like oil over a pool. "Damory Court! Dat's de old Vallant place. Ain' nobody lives dar. Ah reckon ain' nobody live dar fer mos' er hun'erd years!"

"The old house has a great surprise coming to it," said Vallant gravely. "Henceforth some one is going to occupy it. How is it anyway?"

"Measurin' by de coonskin en 't'ow in' in de tail, et's 'bout two mile. Ain' gwine ter live dar yo'self, suh, is yo'?"

"I am for the present," was the crisp answer.

Uncle Jefferson stared at him a moment with his mouth open. Then ejaculating under his breath, "Fo' de Lawd! What folks gwine ter say ter dat!" he shambled to the rear of the motor and began to unship the steamer-trunk.

"What yo' gwine ter do wid dat-ah?" he asked, pointing to the car.

"Ah kin come wid ole Sukey—dat's mah mule—en footch it in de maw'n-in'. Ain't gwine ter rain ter-night no-how."

This matter having been arranged, they started jogging down the green-bordered road, the bulldog prospecting alongside.

"Sposen de Co'ot done ben sold en yo' gwine ter fix it up fo' de new ownah," hazarded Uncle Jefferson presently.

Vallant did not answer directly. "You say the place hasn't been occupied for many years," he observed.

"Did you ever hear why, Uncle Jefferson?"

"Ah done heard," said the other vaguely, "but Ah disremember. Sump'in dat happened befo' Ah come heah 'rom ol' Post-Oak Plantation. Reck'n Majah Bristow he know erbout it, er Mis' Judith—dat's Miss Shirley's mothah. Her fathah was Gen'l Tawm Dandridge, en he died fo' she was bawn."

Shirley Dandridge! A high-sounding name, with something of long-linked culture, of arrogant heritage. In some subtle way it seemed to clothe the personality of which Vallant had had that fleeting roadside glimpse.

"Reck'n yo'all come from New York?" inquired Uncle Jefferson, after a little silence. "So! Dey say dat's er pow'ful big place. But Ah reckon ol' Richmond's big er now fo' me." He chuckled to the leisurely mule and added, "Ah bin ter Richmond oncet. Yas, suh! Ah nevah see sech houses—mos' all bigger'n de county co'ot-house."

John Vallant expressed a somewhat absent interest. He was looking thoughtfully at the blossom in his hand, in an absorption through which Uncle Jefferson's reminiscences cooed on.

CHAPTER VIII.

What Happened Thirty Years Ago.

When Shirley came across the lawn at Rosewood, Major Montague Bristow sat under the arbor talking to her mother.

The major was massive-framed, with a strong jaw and a rufous complexion—the sort that might be supposed to have attained the utmost benefit to be conferred by a consistent indulgence in mint-juleps. His blue eyes were piercing and arched with brows like sable rainbows, at variance with his heavy iron-gray hair and imperial. His head was leonine and he looked like a king who has humbled his enemy. It may be added, that his linen was fine and immaculate, his black string tie precisely tied and a pair of gold-rimmed eye-glasses, swung by a flat black cord against his white waistcoat.

"Shirley," said her mother, "the major's brutal, and he shan't have his mint-julep."

"What has he been doing?" asked the other, her brows wrinkling in a delightful way she had.

"He has reminded me that I'm growing old."

Shirley looked at the major skeptically, for his chivalry was undoubted. During a long career in law and legislature it had been said of him that he could neither speak on the tariff question nor defend a man for murder, without first paying a tribute to "the women of the South, sah."

"Nothing of the sort," he rumbled. Mrs. Dandridge's face softened to wistfulness. "Shirley, am I?" she asked, with a quizzical, almost a droll uneasiness. "Why, I've got every emotion I've ever had. I read all the new French novels, and I'm even thinking of going in for the militant suffragette movement."

The girl had tossed her hat and croon on the table and seated herself

And he knows I'm vain of my feet! Major, if you had ever had a wife, you would have learned wisdom. But you mean well, and I'll take back what I said about the julep. You mix it, Shirley. Yours is even better than Ramston's."

"She makes me one every day, Monty," she continued, as Shirley went into the house. "And when she isn't looking, I pour it into the bush there."

Major Bristow laughed as he bit the end of a cigar. "All the same," he said in his big rumbling voice, "you need 'em, I reckon. You need more than mint-juleps, too. You leave the whiskey to me and the doctor, and you take Shirley and pull out for Italy. Why not? A year there would do you a heap of good."

She shook her head. "No, Monty. It isn't what you think. It's—here."

She lifted her hand and touched her heart. "It's been so for a long time. But it may—it can't go on forever, you see. Nothing can."

The major had leaned forward in his chair. "Judith!" he said, and his hand twitched. "It isn't true!" And then, "How do you know?"

She smiled at him. "You remember when that big surgeon from Vienna came to see the doctor last year? Well, the doctor brought him to me. I'd known it before in a way, but it had gone farther than I thought. No one can tell just how long it may be. It may be years, of course, but I'm not taking any sea trips, Monty."

He cleared his throat and his voice was husky when he spoke. "Shirley doesn't know?"

"Certainly not. She mustn't." And then, in sudden sharpness: "You shan't tell her, Monty. You wouldn't dare!"

"No, indeed," he assured her quickly. "Of course not."

"It's just among us three, Doctor Southall and you and me. We three have had our secrets before, eh, Monty?"

"Yes, Judith, we have."

She bent toward him, her hands tightening on the cane. "After all, it's true. Today I am getting old. I may look only fifty, but I feel sixty and I'll admit to seventy-five. It's joy that keeps us young, and I didn't get my fair share of that, Monty. For just one little week my heart had it all—and then—well, then it was finished. It was finished long before I married Tom Dandridge. It isn't that I'm empty-headed. It's that I've been an empty-headed woman. Monty—as empty and dusty and desolate as the old house over yonder on the ridge."

the "rattles" actually happened at a recent church wedding.

One of the guests came in rather late. "I'm sorry," said the usher; "all the pies are occupied."

"Oh, that's all right," returned the other; "just sew me in a sheet."

It had been raining steadily for the past twenty hours, and, in consequence, the field was more like a lake than a football ground. But the sun was shining now, and a big crowd had assembled to see the game, so the referee decided that the match could not be postponed.

"What?" gasped the captain of the visiting team; "surely you're not going to make us play?"

"Certainly," replied the knight of the whistle; then, seeing an angry retort forming on the captain's lips, he added:

"Now, don't hang about. You've won the toss. Which side are you taking?"

Bathing for Elderly Persons.

Provided their general health is good, elderly persons derive great benefit from bathing. At least two baths a week in water that is neither too hot nor too cold restores elasticity and smoothness to the skin, loosens the tissues and makes the limbs rounder and plumper.

And She Needed Checks.

Teacher—"Did you ask your mamma why the pen was mightier than the sword?" Small Eloise—"Yes, ma'am. She said it was because papa couldn't sign checks with a sword."

85,000 Wisconsin Homes Are Open To Your Message Today.

Wisconsin Daily League, 19 Daily Newspapers published in the best cities in the state, carry your announcement to nearly 500,000 Wisconsin people at a very low cost.

How much would it cost you to circularize 85,000 homes?

Several hundred dollars at least. If you used two cent postage $1700 for stamps alone, without considering the cost of printing stationery, etc., which would amount to several hundred more.

Yet—it is possible to send your message not only once but a number of times to 85,000 homes at a cost of ranging from $16.48 to $376.20.

This can be accomplished through the 19 Daily Newspapers of the Wisconsin Daily League —by inserting your advertisement in the columns of the 19 newspapers.

Every day many people are using this easy, quick, economical way of talking to these 85,000 homes, this half million people.
